Letter from the Director...

For our 2010 domestic violence report we present Domestic Violence Trends in New Mexico, 2005-2009. In addition to our analysis of 2009 data, we reviewed most of the Central Repository domestic violence data for this five-year period to give perspective and context to the information reported. For instance, from 2005-2009 there was an average 22,885 cases of domestic violence a year reported to statewide law enforcement agencies. However, the 20,050 domestic violence incidents reported in 2009 represent a 29% decrease from the number reported in 2005 (28,256). This is great news! Some combination of statewide prevention, investigation, and prosecution efforts are working.

Additionally, there is evidence that the focus on continued training in our state for those professionals who respond to domestic violence is paying dividends. For instance, there has been significant training for law enforcement on identifying the primary aggressor in domestic violence incidents, determining the victim and the suspect in each case. There is evidence that law enforcement has significantly improved in this area. In 2005, a victim was identified in 66% of domestic violence incidents, while in 2009 more victims were identified than there were domestic violence incidents (114%). Similarly in 2005, a suspect was identified in 58% of domestic violence incidents, while in 2009 there was a suspect identified in 91% of domestic violence incidents.

More importantly, there is evidence that more domestic violence victims are aware that helping services exist and are seeking services. In 2005, those that went to statewide domestic violence service providers comprised only 30% of the number of domestic violence incidents reported for that year. In 2009 however, those that went for services comprised 43% of the number of incidents reported.

Presented in Section One of this year's report you will find the five-year trend analysis. In Section Two, is the 2009 analysis of all domestic violence data reported to the Central Repository. As usual, law enforcement reported domestic violence incidents are captured, as well as domestic violence reports from service providers throughout the state. Additionally, findings on new filings and disposed domestic violence cases in statewide district and magistrate courts are presented.

In Section Three, you can see at a glance, county trends on 16 important domestic violence variables.

On behalf of myself and the Office of Injury Prevention, we thank you for your proven interest in the work we do and your consistent participation to make it all possible. Above all, we celebrate our statewide accomplishments in preventing and responding to domestic violence.

Sincerely,

Betty Caponera, Ph.D.

I. INTRODUCTION

In 2005, the Department of Health, Office of Injury Prevention obtained funds to conduct a statewide violence victimization survey. The survey was conducted by Schulman, Ronca and Bucuvalas, Inc. (SRBI) a national research organization with over 25 years experience conducting national and statewide surveys on health and trauma issues.

The purpose of the survey was to obtain state estimates of the prevalence and nature of victimization among adults in New Mexico. The sample for the Survey of Violence Victimization in New Mexico was drawn from a statewide sample of telephone households developed by random digit dialing (RDD). A statewide random sample of 4,000 adults aged 18 and older: 2000 males and 2000 females, were interviewed. Interviewing for the survey was conducted between December 6, 2005 and January, 22 2006. Comprehensive information regarding the survey methods used (sample construction, instrument design, programming, testing, interviewer selection, training, monitoring, conducting the interviews, response rates, field outcomes, data preparation and processing) is found in the Survey Methods Report available upon request from the Central Repository.

Preliminary findings from the Survey of Violence Victimization in New Mexico were published in Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence In New Mexico VI, July 2006. Due to cost and other factors, statewide victimization surveys, like national victimization surveys, are not conducted each year, rather survey data is analyzed over a period of several years. A summary of the findings from the Survey of Violence Victimization in New Mexico in 2005, is found in Appendix A. It offers statewide rates of the incidence and prevalence of domestic violence, intimate partner violence and stalking, together with a discussion of the findings on selected characteristics of these interpersonal violence crimes. Selected findings from the survey can be found in the Fact Sheet of this report, as well. In 2007, additional findings from the Survey of Violence Victimization in New Mexico regarding beliefs about violent crime and accommodating behaviors were published in the Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence In New Mexico VII, July 2007 report. A summary of these findings is found in Appendix B.

This report has three sections. Section One presents a five-year trends analysis of domestic violence data from the New Mexico Interpersonal Violence Data Central Repository, 2005-2009 and a discussion of the implications of the findings. Section Two presents an analysis of 2009 data from the Central Repository. Section Three presents an analysis of 16 important domestic violence variables for each individual county, so that the reader can access important domestic violence trends in his/her county at a glance.

The Central Repository is supported by the State of New Mexico Department of Health, Office of Injury Prevention and Behavioral Health Services Division and the New Mexico Crime Victims Reparation Commission Violence Against Women STOP Grant Program. It was established in 1998 to house data submitted from a variety of agencies statewide (law enforcement, district and magistrate courts, and domestic violence service providers) that deal with the issue of domestic violence. In 2001, the Central Repository began capturing statewide sexual assault data, as well. To this end, data from rape crisis centers, statewide mental health centers and sexual assault nurse examiner units (SANEs) that provide services for sexual assault victims are also submitted to the Central Repository.

II. DEFINITIONS

Domestic violence incidence as determined by law enforcement include all incidents of assault, aggravated assault, battery, and aggravated battery as outlined in the “Crimes Against Household Members Act” in statutes 30-3-10 through 3-3-16. Full definitions are found in Appendix C.

Data submitted from law enforcement agencies are used to determine statewide domestic violence reported incidence and the county rates of reported domestic violence.

Domestic violence cases as determined by domestic violence service providers include all adult victims who are accepted as clients by the providers for delivery of services. Data on children victim-witnesses and offenders served by domestic violence service providers are also analyzed and presented herein. None of the cases served by the domestic violence service providers are considered in the county reported rates of incidence to avoid possible duplication of reporting.

Domestic violence data from all magistrate and district courts include codes that capture aggravated assault, aggravated battery, aggravated stalking, assault, battery, stalking and assault with intent to commit a violent felony, all against a household member. These codes and the number of protection orders granted are extracted from the Administrative Office of the Courts Judicial Information System.

Currently, standardized data from each aforementioned discipline are submitted to the Central Repository on a quarterly basis. The data from the Central Repository analyzed for this report covers domestic violence data for the period 1/1/05 – 12/31/09.

SECTION ONE: DOMESTIC VIOLENCE TRENDS IN NEW MEXICO 2005-2009

I. FINDINGS

A. Law Enforcement Reported Domestic Violence Incidents

Between 2005 and 2009, an average 102 law enforcement agencies submitted domestic violence data to the Central Repository. In this time period, an average 22,885 cases of domestic violence came to the attention of statewide law enforcement agencies each year. The greatest number of domestic violence cases was reported to law enforcement in 2005 (28,256). This number decreased steadily until 2008 (18,485). There were 20,050 incidents of domestic violence reported by law enforcement agencies in 2009, an 8% increase over that reported in 2008. See Figure T1. However, 2008 data from the Albuquerque Police Department (APD) and Bernalillo County Sheriff’s Office (BCSO) were incomplete due to the transition to a new records operating system; and it is unclear what proportion of the increase from 2008 to 2009 can be explained by this change.

B. Number and Gender of Victims

Between 2005 and 2009, law enforcement reported an average of 20,238 victims of domestic violence each year, with the greatest number of victims identified in 2009 (22,855). This represents a 17% increase of victims over that reported in 2008 (19,570). Since 2008 data from APD and BCSO impact the statewide total of victim numbers in the same way they impact the number of domestic violence incidents, as explained earlier, this increase should be viewed with caution. However, the 22,855 victims identified by statewide law enforcement agencies in 2009, represents the greatest number of victims identified during the 5-year period analyzed. See Figure T2.

An average 72% of victims each year during this period were female.

C. Number and Gender of Suspects

From 2005 to 2009, law enforcement reported an average of 18,190 suspects of domestic violence each year, with the greatest number of suspects identified in 2009 (20,775). This represents an increase of 15% over that reported in 2008 (18,088). Again, since 2008 data from APD and BCSO impact the statewide total of suspect numbers in the same way they impact the number of domestic violence incidents and victim identification, this increase should be viewed with caution. However, the 20,775 suspects identified by statewide law enforcement agencies in 2009, represents the greatest number of suspects identified during the 5-year period analyzed. See Figure T3.

An average 76% of suspects each year during this period were male.

D. Victim Ages

The average age of most domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement from 2005-2009 was 26-35 (26%), followed by victims 19-25 (23%) and victims 36-45 (19%). See Figure T4. It is worth noting that there has been dramatic improvement in the number of law enforcement reports documenting victim ages. From 2005-2007 law enforcement reported victim ages on an average 52% of domestic violence victims. In 2008 and 2009, ages were reported on 84% and 80% of victims, respectively.

E. Suspect Ages

Similarly, the average age of most domestic violence suspects identified by law enforcement from 2005-2009 was 26-35 (31%), followed by suspects 19-25 (26%) and suspects 36-45 (20%). Refer to Figure T4. As found with victim identification, there has been dramatic improvement in the number of law enforcement reports documenting suspect ages. From 2005-2007, law enforcement reported suspect ages on an average 48% of domestic violence suspects. In 2008 and 2009, ages were reported on 83% and 80% of victims, respectively.

F. Victim Race/Ethnicity

Most domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement are Hispanic, an average 44% each year from 2005-2009, followed by Whites (non-Hispanics) (37%), Native Americans (13%), Blacks (3%) and victims of other races (3%). See Figure T5. There appear to be significant changes in the proportion of victims comprised by each race after 2007. See Figures T6-T9. This is explained more by a change in the capture of race/ethnicity in APD and BCSO records than by a change in the rate of domestic violence for each group. Starting in 2008, only the non-Hispanic victims that comprise each race are counted as such. Victims of Hispanic ethnicity of each race are counted as Hispanic. The race/ethnic designations are by self-report.

G. Suspect Race/Ethnicity

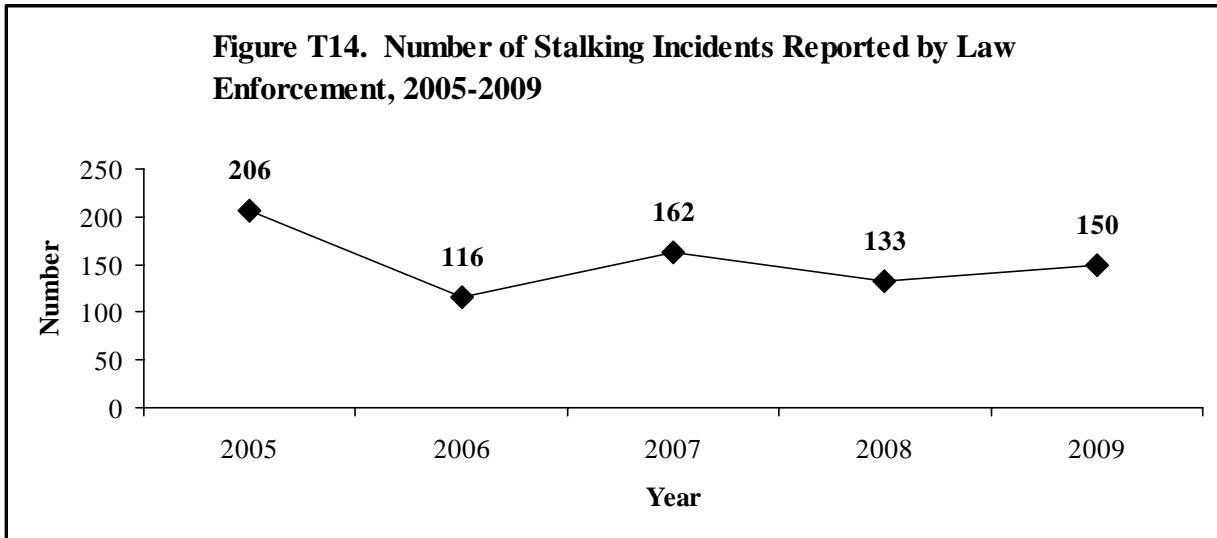

Similarly, most domestic violence suspects identified by law enforcement are Hispanic, an average 44% each year from 2005-2009, followed by Whites (non-Hispanics) (35%), Native Americans (13%), Blacks (5%) and victims of other races (2%). Refer to Figure T5. As with victim race/ethnicity, there appear to be significant changes in the proportion of suspects comprised by each race after 2007. See Figures T10-T13. Again, this is explained more by a change in the capture of race/ethnicity in APD and BCSO records than by a change in the rate of domestic violence for each group.

H. Stalking Incidents

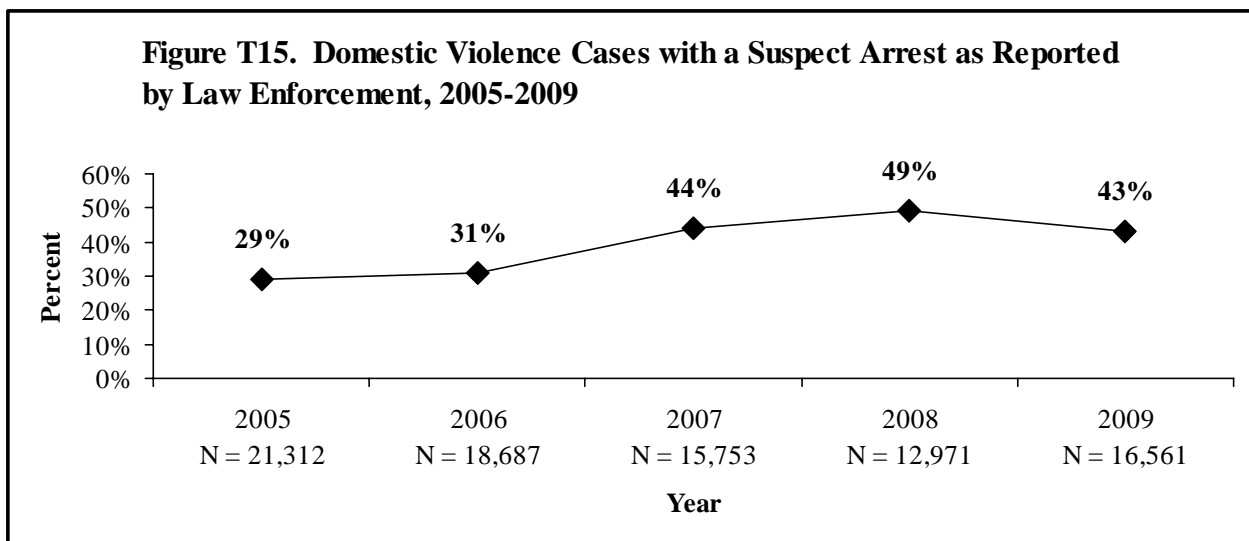

From 2005-2009, there was an average 153 stalking cases reported to law enforcement each year. The most stalking cases were reported in 2005 (206 or 1% of domestic violence incidents); and the fewest stalking cases reported in 2006 (116), less than 0.5% of domestic violence incidents). See Figure T14. It is worth noting that there is significant and inexplicable disparity between the number of stalking incidents reported to law enforcement and the number that actually occur in New Mexico. In 2005, the Statewide Survey of Violence Victimization (SVV) found that 12 per 1000 adults (20 per 1000 women; and 4 per 1000 men) were stalked or approximately 17,177 victims. Further, the SVV found that 34% of stalking victims stated that they reported their victimization to law enforcement. Yet in 2005, law enforcement reported 206 stalking cases.

I. Suspect Arrests

Between 2005 and 2009 there was an average 39% of law enforcement reported domestic violence incidents that resulted in a suspect arrest. It is worth noting that the proportion of domestic violence incidents with a suspect arrest increased steadily and significantly from a low of 29% in 2005 to a high of 49% in 2008. In 2009, 43% of domestic violence incidents resulted in a suspect arrest. See Figure T15.

J. Crisis/Hotline Calls to Domestic Violence Service Providers

An average 20,192 crisis calls were handled by domestic violence service providers each year from 2005-2009. In 2008, there were 23,517 crisis calls, the most of any year, followed by 22,389 in 2009. See Figure T16.

K. Adult Victims, Children, and Offenders Served by Domestic Violence Service Providers

There was an average of 8,729 domestic violence adult victims served each year from 2005-2009 by statewide domestic violence service providers. The number of victims served increased each year from 2005 (8,371) to 2007 (9,243), but decreased significantly to 8,155 in 2008 before increasing again in 2009 (8,657). See Figure T17.

An average 93% of adult victims served each year from 2005-2009 were female.

Between 2005 and 2009, an average 5,902 children were served by statewide domestic violence service providers. From a high in 2006 of 6,844 children served, the number of children decreased in each of the next three years. In 2009, a low of 3,886 children received services. See Figure T18.

An equal proportion of the children served each year (50%) were male and female.

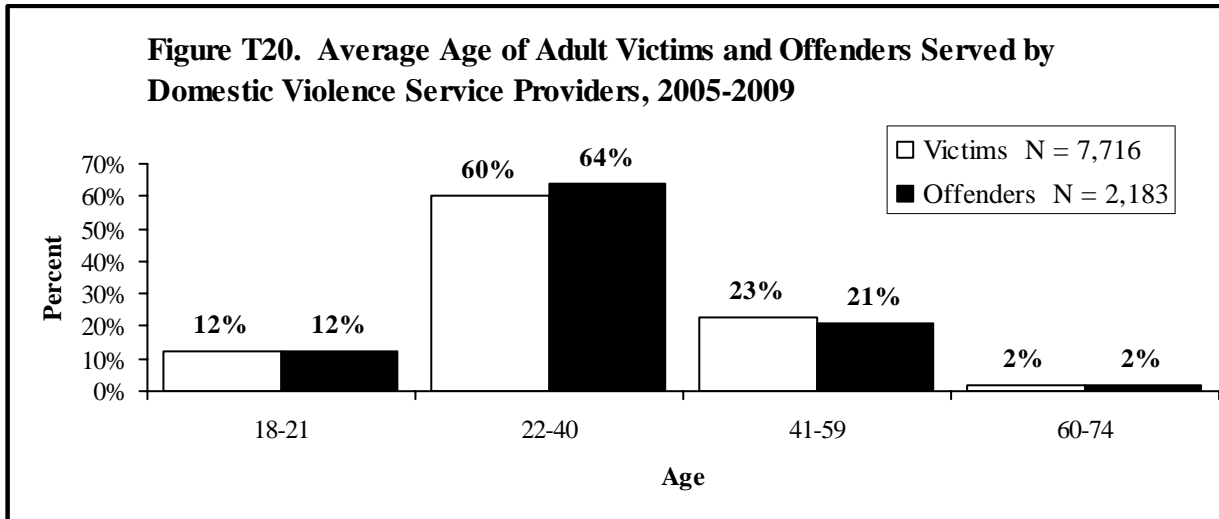

From 2005 to 2009 there was an average 2,433 offenders served by statewide domestic violence service providers. The number of offenders served decreased each year from 2,461 in 2005 to 2,119 in 2007. There was a significant increase in the number of offenders served in 2008 (2,778), but 2009 had an 11% decrease in the number of offenders served (2,478). See Figure T19.

An average 85% of offenders served each year from 2005-2009 were male.

L. Ages of Adult Victims, Children, and Offenders Served by Domestic Violence Service Providers

The average age of most adult victims served by domestic violence service providers from 2005-2009 was 22-40 (60%), followed by victims 41-59 (23%) and victims 18-21 (12%). See Figure T20. Similarly, the average age of most offenders served by domestic violence service providers from 2005-2009 was 22-40 (64%), followed by offenders 41-59 (21%) and offenders 18-21 (12%). Offenders 60-74 comprised 2% of all offenders served. Refer to Figure T20.

The average age of most children served by domestic violence service providers from 2005-2009 was <6 (43%), followed by children 6-11 (34%) and children 12-17 (23%). See Figure T21.

M. Race/Ethnicity of Adult Victims, Children, and Offenders Served by Domestic Violence Service Providers

Most adult victims served by domestic violence service providers are Hispanic, an average 53% each year from 2005-2009, followed by Whites (non-Hispanics) (31%), Native Americans (12%), Blacks (3%) and 1% respectively of Asians and victims of other races. See Figure T22. For adult victims, there were negligible differences from year-to-year in their representation among each of the races/ethnicities.

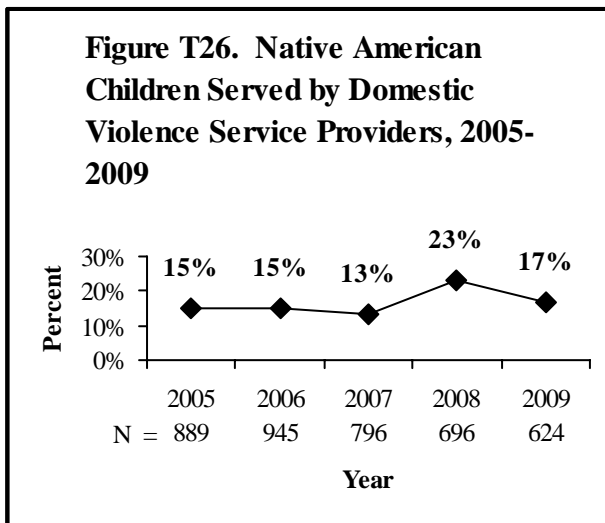

Similarly, most offenders served by domestic violence service providers are Hispanic, an average 51% each year from 2005-2009, followed by Whites (non-Hispanics) (29%), Native Americans (15%), Blacks (4%) and victims of other races (1%). Refer to Figure T22. For offenders, there were negligible differences from year-to-year in their representation among each of the races/ethnicities.

Between 2005 and 2009, most children served by domestic violence service providers were Hispanic (57%), followed by White (non-Hispanics) (22%), Native Americans (16%), Blacks (4%) and children of other races (1%). See Figure T23.

There was significant fluctuation in the races/ethnicities of the children served from 2005-2009 among Hispanic, White (non-Hispanic) and Native American children. The proportion of Hispanic children served ranged from a high in 2007 (61%) to a low 52% respectively in 2005 and 2008. See Figure T24. The proportion of White (non-Hispanic) children served ranged from a high in 2005 (28%) to a low of 18% in 2009 (see Figure T25). The proportion of Native American children served ranged from a low in 2007 (13%) to a high in 2008 (23%). See Figure T26.

N. Domestic Violence and Alcohol/Drug Use

From 2005-2009, an average one-third (34%) of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement involved alcohol/drug use. Alcohol/drug use increased each year from 2005 (29%) to 2007 (37%), decreased slightly in 2008 (35%) and increased to its highest level in 2009 (38%). See Figure T27.

One-quarter (25%) of the adult victims served by domestic violence service providers each year from 2005-2009 reported using alcohol/drugs during their domestic violence incident. The greatest proportion of adult victims using alcohol/drugs was in 2006 (29%), while the fewest using alcohol/drugs was reported in 2009 (23%). See Figure T28. Adult victim and offenders report significant differences in offender alcohol/drug use. Adult victims reported an average two-thirds (63%) of their offenders used alcohol/drugs during their domestic violence incidents between 2005 and 2009, with the highest proportion of victim reported offender use in 2006 (69%). Conversely, offender reports of self-use found an average 51% of offenders reported using alcohol/drugs each year during their domestic violence incidents. Refer to Figure T28.

O. Domestic Violence and Weapon Use

Law Enforcement reported an average 45% of domestic violence incidents each year from 2005-2009 involved a weapon. Weapon use was the highest in 2009 (51%) which is a significant increase (13%) from 2005 (38%). See Figure T29. An average 7% of domestic violence incidents each year involved a knife, and 3% each year involved a gun. By contrast, adult victims served by domestic violence service providers reported an average 19% of their cases involved a weapon. Refer to Figure T29.

P. Injury from Domestic Violence Incidents

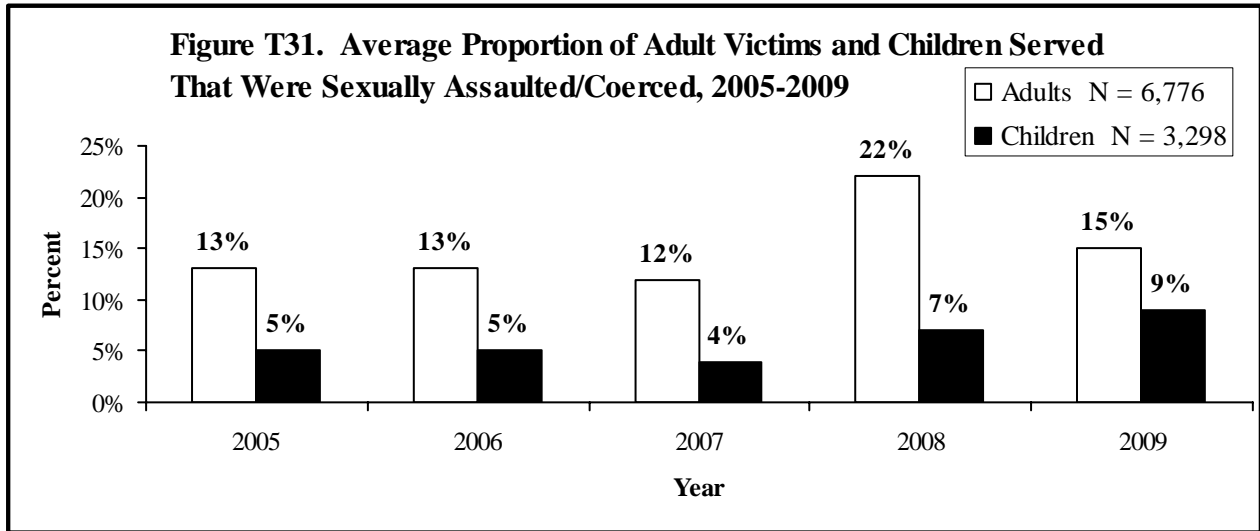

Law Enforcement reported an average 34% of domestic violence incidents resulted in victim injury. There was a 7% increase in the percent of domestic violence incidents that resulted in victim injury from 2005 (28%) to 2009 (35%). 2008 had the highest proportion of domestic violence incidents that resulted in victim injury (38%). See Figure T30. Similarly, service providers reported that an average 34% of adult victims served from 2005-2009 were injured during their victimization. Victim injuries among adults served increased 8% from 2005 (28%) to 2009 (36%). Refer to Figure T30. Additionally, an average one-third (32%) of children each year among those receiving services, were injured by the adult victim’s offender. Refer to Figure T30.

Law enforcement agencies documented the type of victim injuries sustained. From 2005-2009, an average 89% of victim injuries each year were minor injuries, followed by 5% severe lacerations, 2% major injuries, and 1% respectively, injuries involving broken bones, internal injuries, or unconsciousness.

Q. Domestic Violence Involving Sexual Assault

Between 2005 and 2009, an average 15% of adult victims served by statewide service providers each year were sexually assaulted/coerced by their offenders. The 15% of adult victims sexually assaulted/coerced in 2009 represent a 7% decrease from that reported in 2008 (22%), which is the highest rate of sexual assault among victims served in the five-year period analyzed. In the same time frame, an average 6% of children served each year experienced sexual abuse from the domestic violence offenders of the adult victims. The 9% of children sexually abused in 2009 represents the greatest proportion of adult victim reports involving sexually abused children over the five years studied. See Figure T31.

R. Victim/Offender Relationship

From 2005-2009, boyfriend/girlfriend was the relationship involved in the most law enforcement reported domestic violence incidents, an average 40% of incidents each year, followed by family/ relatives (27%) and spouses (18%). Ex-spouses and ex-boyfriends/girlfriends comprised 3%, respectively of the relationships in domestic violence incidents each year, and gay/gay ex-partner comprised 1%. See Figure T32. In the five-year period, there were negligible differences in the percent of domestic violence incidents each relationship comprised.

Among service provider reports, those who were intimate but not married comprised the relationships with the most domestic violence cases, 33%: 23% living together and 10% dating. Married couples defined the relationship comprising the second most domestic violence cases among those served (28%), followed by ex-intimate partners, 27%: separated (11%), divorced (6%) and ex-partner (10%). See Figure T33.

S. Children Present In Domestic Violence Situations

From 2005-2009, service providers reported that children were present as the scene of an average 57% of the adult victims’ domestic violence incidents each year. Children present at the scene of 53% of adult victim cases in 2009 equals that reported in 2008 and is a 9% decrease from that reported in 2007 (62%), the year with the most adult victim cases with children present. See Figure T34. Conversely, law enforcement reported an average 18% of domestic violence cases each year from 2005-2009 had children present. The 26% of law enforcement cases with children present reported in 2009 represents a 6% increase over that reported in 2008 (20%), an 11% increase over that reported in 2005 (15%), and is the year with the most law enforcement reported cases with children present. Refer to Figure T34.

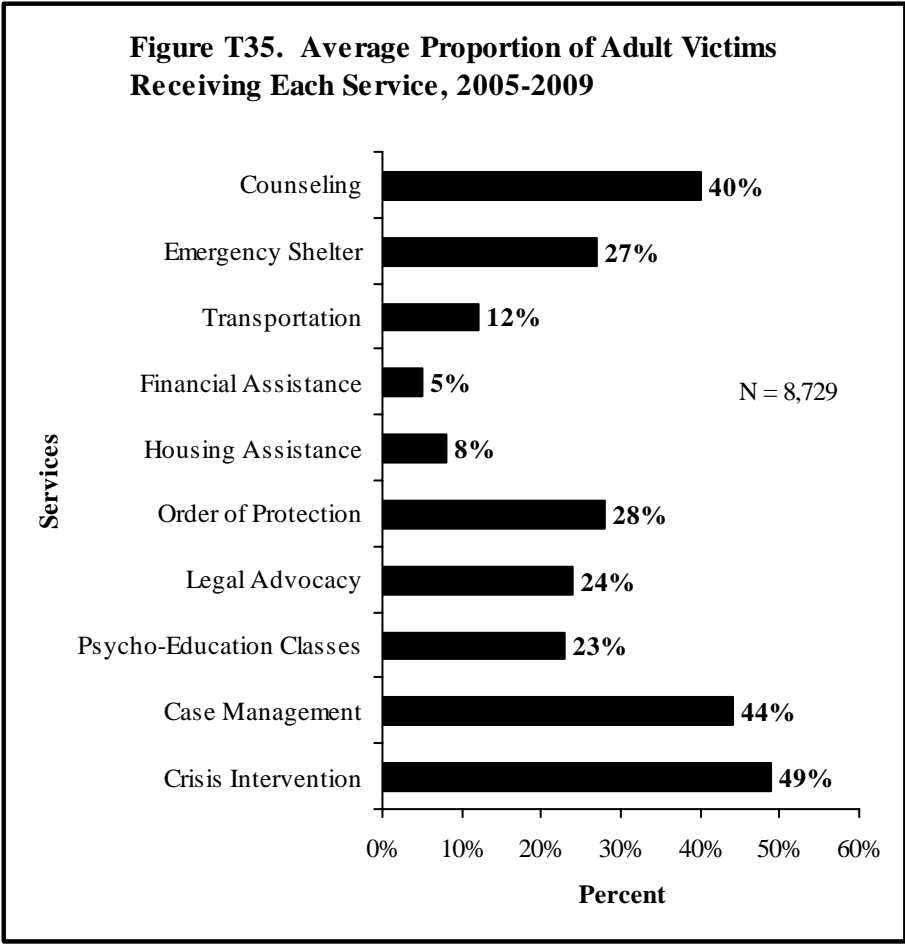

T. Past Abuse Among Offenders and Victims

Between 2005 and 2009, over half (an average 55%) of adult victims receiving services each year reported experiencing or witnessing abuse as a child. Among offenders served, an average 43% each year reported experiencing or witnessing abuse as a child. It is interesting to note that an average 62% of adult victims served in this time period reported that their offender experienced or witnessed abuse as a child. Additionally, between 2005 and 2009 two-thirds (an average 64%) of adult victims reported experiencing a prior domestic violence incident as an adult.

U. Services Received by Adult Victims

From 2005-2009, most adult victims received crisis intervention services (an average 49% each year) followed by case management (44%) and counseling services (40%). Approximately one quarter of adult victims received orders of protection (28%) each year, followed by emergency shelter (27%), legal advocacy services (24%) and psycho-education classes (23%). From 2005-2009 the fewest adult victims (5%) received financial support each year, followed by housing assistance (8%) and transportation (12%). See Figure T35.

An examination of services received by adult victims shows decreases from 2005 to 2009 in the proportion of victims receiving counseling (11% decrease), emergency shelter (4% decrease), transportation (2% decrease), orders of protection (10% decrease), psycho-education classes (27% decrease) and case management (22% decrease). See Figures T36-T41, respectively. Conversely, from 2005 to 2009, there were increases in the proportion of victims receiving financial support (6% increase), housing assistance (3% increase), legal advocacy services (20% increase) and crises intervention (6% increase). See Figures T42-T45, respectively.

V. Services Received by Children

From 2005-2009, most children received emergency shelter services (an average 34% each year) followed by counseling (22%) and case management (14%). Very few children each year received day care (2%) or school services (5%). See Figure T46. The proportion of children receiving each service remained relatively unchanged from 2005 to 2009 except for the proportion receiving emergency shelter which increased significantly from 34% in 2005 to 46% in 2009. See Figure T47.

W. Services Received by Offenders

Between 2005 and 2009, an average 60% of offenders each year received counseling services, followed by psycho-education classes (45%) and case management (40%).

An examination of services received shows significant decreases from 2005 to 2009 in the proportion of offenders receiving psycho-education classes (25% decrease) and case management (27% decrease); and a 6% decrease in the proportion of offenders receiving counseling services. See Figures T48-T50, respectively.

X. Adult Victims That Reported Their Victimization to Law Enforcement

An average 48% of adult victims each year from 2005-2009 reported their domestic violence victimization to law enforcement. In 2009, 54% of adult victims reported their victimization to law enforcement, the most in the five year period. See Figure T51.

Y. Protection Orders Filed

There was an average 4,781 protection orders issued for domestic violence each year between 2005 and 2009 by statewide district courts. The 4,027 issued for domestic violence in 2009 represents a 42% decrease from the number issued in 2005 (6,991). It should be noted that in 2006, the Administrative Office of the Courts changed its codes for capturing protection orders issued for domestic violence. This resulted in a 32% decrease from 2005 to 2006 (4,779). However, the 4,027 protection orders issued in 2009 represent a 16% decrease since 2006 when the change was implemented. See Figure T52.

From 2005-2009 service providers filed an average 2,736 protection orders for the adult victims they served. The most protection orders were filed by service providers in 2007 (3,372) a 30% increase over the number filed in 2005 (2,600). However, the number of protection orders filed by service providers decreased dramatically (48%) from 2007 to 2008 (1,757) before returning to 2,691 filings in 2009. See Figure T53.

Z. Domestic Violence in District and Magistrate Courts

An average 7,977 domestic violence charges were filed in magistrate courts from 2005-2009. This number does not include Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court as they do not report to the Central Repository. The 8,517 filings in 2009 represent an 8% increase over 2008 filings (7,883) and are the most filings in the five-year period. See Figure T54. There was an average 3,118 charges of domestic violence filed in district courts from 2005-2009. The 3,246 filings in 2009 represent a 7.5% decrease from that filed in 2008 (3,510) the most filings during the five-year period. Refer to Figure T54.

Figure T54. Number of Domestic Violence Charges Filed in District and Magistrate Courts, 2005-2009

From 2005-2009, an average 7,697 charges of domestic violence were disposed in magistrate courts each year. The 8,194 domestic violence charges disposed in magistrate court in 2009 represent an 11% over 2008 dispositions (7,365) and were the most domestic violence charges disposed in the five-year period. See

Figure T55. Similarly, an average 3,054 charges of domestic violence were disposed in district courts each year. The 3,377 domestic violence charges disposed in district court in 2009 represent an 2% increase over 2008 dispositions (3,303) and were the most domestic violence charges disposed in the five-year period. Refer to Figure T55.

The type of charge most disposed in the magistrate courts was battery, an average 68% of domestic violence charges disposed each year from 2005-2009, followed by aggravated battery (13%), assault (12%) and aggravated assault (5%). Stalking, aggravated stalking, and assault with intent to commit violent felony averaged 1% of domestic violence charges disposed in magistrate courts in each of the five years analyzed. See Figure T56. Similarly, the type of charge most disposed in the district courts was battery, an average 51% of domestic violence charges disposed each year from 2005-2009, followed by aggravated battery (25%), aggravated assault (14%) and assault (6%). Aggravated stalking comprised an average 2% of disposed domestic violence charges in district courts each year. Stalking and assault with intent to commit violent felony averaged 1% of domestic violence charges disposed in district courts in each of the five years analyzed. Refer to Figure T56.

There was an average 28% conviction rate of domestic violence charges disposed in magistrate courts each year from 2005-2009. The conviction rate in 2009 (23%) represents a 3% decrease from that in 2008 (26%) and a 9% decrease since 2005 (32%). See Figure T57.

Similarly, there was an average 40% conviction rate of domestic violence charges disposed in district courts each year from 2005-2009. The conviction rate in 2009 (37%) represents a 2% decrease from that in 2008 (39%) and a 4% decrease since 2005 (41%). See Figure T58.

II. IMPLICATIONS OF THE FINDINGS

A. Evidence Supporting a Reduction in the Incidence of Domestic Violence

Without an annual statewide victimization survey it is not possible to measure change in the rate of domestic violence incidence that captures reported and unreported cases. It is only possible to capture changes in reported domestic violence. Our best indicator for measuring change in reported incidents is the number of domestic violence cases reported to statewide law enforcement agencies. From 2005-2009, there was a 29% decrease in the number of domestic violence incidents reported to statewide law enforcement agencies while the number of law enforcement agencies reporting to the Central Repository (an average 102 each year) and the proportion of the state population represented by participating law enforcement agencies (an average 92%) have remained relatively constant. This is welcome news as it indicates that prevention initiatives over the last five years are making a difference.

B. Law Enforcement Response to Domestic Violence: Improvements and Challenges

1. At the Scene Offense Reporting

The proportion of victims and suspects of each age group has remained relatively unchanged from 2005-2009 but there has been dramatic improvement in the number of law enforcement reports documenting victim and suspect ages. There has been much emphasis over the last five years on more detailed documentation from law enforcement officers on offense incident reports; and more recently, a bill was introduced in the 2010 legislative session for law enforcement to adopt an offense report specifically for domestic violence cases. While the bill did not pass, the discussions regarding better documentation involved law enforcement representatives from APD and several other agencies throughout the state and may have contributed to the increase in reporting victim and suspect ages more consistently. From 2005-2007 law enforcement reported victim ages on an average 52% of domestic violence victims. In 2008 and 2009, ages were reported on an average 82% of victims. Similarly, from 2005-2007 law enforcement reported suspect ages on an average 48% of domestic violence suspects. In 2008 and 2009, ages were reported on an average 82% of suspects.

2. Identifying Victims and Suspects

In 2005, the Statewide Violence Victimization Survey (SVV) identified twice as many victims (36,594) than were identified by law enforcement (19,570) in that year. Training of law enforcement on identifying the primary aggressor in domestic violence incidents to better identify the victim and offender in each case was introduced. Findings from this five-year analysis of Central Repository data demonstrate that there has been a 48% increase from 2005 (66%) to 2009 (114%) in the number of domestic violence incidents where a victim was identified. Similarly, offender identification has significantly improved. There was a 46% increase from 2005 (58%) to 2009 (104%) in the number of domestic violence incidents where a suspect was identified.

3. Improvements in Suspect Arrests

The motivation to accurately identify a primary aggressor in violent situations is to obtain better outcomes for the victim and children (safety and referrals for services); and to separate the offender from those at risk for harm. Perhaps an unintended benefit to the improved ability of officers to identify the primary aggressor in a violent situation is an increase in the number of domestic violence incidents that resulted in a suspect arrest. The proportion of domestic violence incidents with a suspect arrest increased significantly (20%), from a low in 2005 (29%) to a high in 2008 (49%). In 2009, 43% of domestic violence incidents resulted in a suspect arrest, as well.

4. Stalking Technology, Training and Victim Referral

Even with new stalking policies, there are still too few cases of stalking recognized and charged as such by law enforcement agencies throughout the state. In 2005, the SVV identified 17,177 stalking victims and each experienced an average of 14.3 incidents throughout the year. In the same year, New Mexico law enforcement agencies identified 206 incidents of stalking. There are numerous administrative and procedural issues that affect accurate reporting of domestic violence and stalking incidents ranging from whether and how police offense incident reports are written, and how these reports are entered into law enforcement databases or otherwise counted.

The issues surrounding identification of stalking incidents and victims are particularly worrisome. One possible explanation is that most stalking cases are labeled other crimes (harassment, vandalism, destruction of property, arson, trespassing, car theft, etc.) and are therefore not captured. The inability to differentiate between stalking victims and victims of isolated crimes means that stalking victims are not getting referred for appropriate services. This is a significant problem as the SVV found that 87% of stalking victims also reported being a victim of domestic violence, other physical attack, and/or sexual assault. These victims and their children are at greater health and safety risk and need to be referred for appropriate services; and these types of referrals are not likely to happen as a result of a trespass, vandalism, or other similarly labeled isolated crime incident. It is imperative to provide necessary training to all law enforcement officers, administrative personnel, and executive personnel whose policies guide law enforcement procedure regarding the description, documentation and data entry of stalking crimes. In 2010, APD and a few other law enforcement agencies implemented new technology for officers at the scene to access information regarding prior offenses and protection order information. It is hoped that this technology will improve identification and referral of stalking victims and the documentation of stalking incidents.

C. Mixed Findings Regarding Domestic Violence Services

There is some evidence that more domestic violence victims are aware that helping services exist and are seeking services. In 2005, those that went to statewide domestic violence service providers comprised only 30% of the number of domestic violence incidents reported that year to law enforcement. In 2009 however, those that went for services comprised 43% of the number of incidents reported. While this information is welcomed, it is tempered by the fact that too many victims that need services are making crisis calls but still not following up with more comprehensive assistance. From 2005-2007, the average proportion of crisis calls represented by the number of victims served was 49%, while more recently, from 2008-2009, the average proportion of callers seeking further services was only 37%. So, while community education about domestic violence is making victims aware of the existence of hotline assistance, not enough of these victims are following through seeking critical services. To make matters worse, there is evidence to suggest that when victims do follow through, significantly fewer of them are receiving each type of service offered by statewide service providers.

While there was an 11% decrease in the proportion of victims receiving counseling services, an a 10% decrease in the proportion of victims obtaining assistance with an order of protection, of particular concern is the significant drop in the proportion of victims that receive education classes (27% decrease) and case management (22% decrease). The reasons for the drop in the number of victims that receive each of these services is unclear in the face of dramatic increases in the proportion of victims that received legal advocacy services (20%), and more mild increases in the proportion that received financial support (6%), crisis intervention (6%) and housing assistance (3%).

As discussed earlier, relative to the number of law enforcement reported incidents of domestic violence, more adult victims than ever before are seeking services. The same cannot be said for children.

Fewer children are accessing domestic violence services. There was a significant decrease from 2005 (6,692) to 2009 (3,886) in the number of children served by statewide domestic violence service providers. The number of children served in 2009, represent a 43% drop since 2006. When children did access services, the proportion of them that received counseling (22%), case management (14%), day care (2%), and school (5%) remained relatively unchanged, while the proportion that received emergency shelter, increased 12% from 2005 (34%) to 2009 (46%). This evidence suggests that children are obtaining emergency respite from a violent situation, but are not benefiting from other assistance.

D. Evidence Supporting the Focus on Early Intervention to Prevent Domestic Violence

Between 2005 and 2009, two-thirds (an average 65%) of the law enforcement incidents documenting the victim/offender relationship, were perpetrated by a current or former intimate partner, 44% of these by current or former boyfriends/girlfriends who are or were dating or living together. Similarly, 88% of adult victims who sought services from a domestic violence service provider were assaulted by a current or former intimate partner, one-third of these were dating or living together. The SSV found that two-thirds (66.5%) of domestic violence incidents were perpetrated by current or former intimate partners, one-third of these were dating or living together. Further, stalking behaviors begin in adolescence and the incidence of adolescent stalking is almost twice that of adolescent intimate partner violence. The high proportion of interpersonal violence cases perpetrated by those not yet married, demonstrate that true prevention requires early education initiatives on building healthy relationships during adolescence.

E. Alcohol and Drug Education and Treatment in the Prevention of Domestic Violence

From 2005-2009, alcohol and/or other drug use was documented in an average 34% of law enforcement incidents with the highest proportion of cases in 2009 (38%). For the five-year analysis, an average 93% of the law enforcement cases involving alcohol/drug use involved suspect use of alcohol/drugs and 34% involved victim use of alcohol/drugs. Additionally, an average 25% of adult victims served by domestic violence service providers reported being under the influence of alcohol/drugs at the time of their incident. Findings from the SVV revealed that alcohol/drug use is significantly more likely among male victims and offenders than female victims and offenders. Implications for treatment for both victims and offenders include alcohol and drug prevention education and rehabilitation services with particular focus on males.

F. Sexual Assault Prevention and Treatment for Domestic Violence Child and Adult Victims

From 2005-2009, 1 in every 5 incidents of domestic violence reported by law enforcement involved a child witness and an average of two children were present at each. Additionally, at least one child was present in 1 out of every 1.7 adult victim cases handled by domestic violence service providers. Too many children experienced sexual abuse (an average 6% each year) at the hands of their adult-victim's offender.

Similarly, from 2005-2009, an average 15% of adult domestic violence victims were sexually assaulted by their offender.

The rates of sexual abuse of adults and children are grossly underreported. Findings from the SVV reveal that almost half of the adults in New Mexico who were ever a victim of domestic violence, intimate partner violence or stalking were also sexually assaulted. Of those that were sexually assaulted, 45% were victimized by the age of 12. This suggests that effective prevention and treatment programs for domestic violence victims must include components of sexual assault prevention and treatment or must provide referrals to appropriate sexual assault services.

G. Evidence Supporting the Need to Identify Domestic Violence Victims in the Healthcare Setting

From 2005-2009, law enforcement reported that an average one-third (34%) of adult victims were physically injured as a result of domestic violence. Similarly, statewide service providers reported that one-third respectively, of adults (34%) and children (32%) were physically injured by the adult victim's offender. The SVV found that 44% of domestic violence victims were injured and over one-third of them sought medical treatment. This suggests that increased accuracy in reporting domestic violence incidents and identifying victims for referral to needed interventions requires interpersonal violence surveillance initiatives in New Mexico healthcare facilities.

Patients that are seen in the healthcare/emergency room setting with a domestic violence-related injury are typically not reported to law enforcement and represent a substantial gap in reporting. While many healthcare facilities use screening tools to identify patients who are victims of domestic violence, no standardized monitoring system to reliably document the number of these individuals currently exists. Methods to determine healthcare utilization by victims of violence through e-codes or billing databases have been unsuccessful and are unreliable at best, due to definitional problems of the codes, practitioner discretion and inconsistencies in naming injuries, and the insurance related intentions of billing databases. The need to rectify these problems is underscored by findings from the SVV which revealed substantial co-morbidity with domestic violence victims with regard to serious disabling injury and chronic mental health problems.

H. Evidence Supporting the Need for Better Court Data on Domestic Violence

It is not at all clear why the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) changed the set of codes that defined domestic violence protection orders in 2006. This change omitted three previous codes from the definition set. The result in 2006 was a 32% drop in the number of protection orders related to domestic violence from the previous year. However, from 2006-2009, the definition set has been consistent and still, there was a 16% decrease in the number of protection orders issued by district courts in that time period.

The Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court data is not standardized with data from other magistrate courts across the state and is separate from data captured at the AOC. While the AOC reports magistrate court data to the Central Repository, BCMC does not. Since BCMC is the largest jurisdiction in the state, there is no way to measure how closely the Central Repository's findings on magistrate court dispositions and convictions correspond to actual practices regarding the adjudication of domestic violence cases.

It is important to obtain better court data because evidence of currently available data demonstrates that while there has been an increase in the number of domestic violence charges filed in district (8%) and magistrate courts (6%) and an increase in the number of domestic violence charges disposed in district (19%) and magistrate courts (3%), there has been a steady decrease in the rate of domestic violence convictions in district (4%) and magistrate courts (9%).

Without better data from the courts, too much vital information remains unknown: 1) how many new domestic violence charges get dismissed and why; 2) why the rate of conviction for domestic violence cases is so low; 3) what the typical sentence is for misdemeanor and felony domestic violence charges; and 4) what the average length of incarceration is for domestic violence felonies compared to other felonies. Answers to these questions will serve to improve the efficacy of legal advocacy for domestic violence victims.

The AOC has “three staff attorneys who serve as the point of contact for designated subject matter areas: water, access to justice, and child welfare and juvenile justice”. Currently, there is an initiative proposed by the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) Implementation Team to provide a grant to create another point of contact attorney within the AOC for violence against women issues. This point of contact would among other things, “work to improve communication among key stakeholders and promote best practices”. Specifically he/she would “explore the need for and make recommendations regarding standard policies, practices and procedures for processing domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking cases. There has never been a greater need for this position. It is hoped that this point of contact will include as part of his/her charge, the challenge of addressing these data issues. The scope of domestic violence includes much more charges than what currently define it in the courts, typically battery and aggravated battery, assault and aggravated assault. Without a greater scope of definition and communication of case information, we will not be equipped to address the obstacles to improved legal advocacy for domestic violence victims.

SECTION TWO: ANALYSIS OF 2009 DOMESTIC VIOLENCE DATA FROM THE CENTRAL REPOSITORY

I. FINDINGS

A. How Many Domestic Violence Incidents in 2009 Were Identified by Law Enforcement

There were 100 law enforcement agencies that submitted domestic violence data to the Central Repository during 2009 (see Appendix D). Data from each participating agency was extracted from police offense incident reports and submitted in aggregate form on the standardized Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Data Collection Form (see Appendix E).

F. Who Went For Help As A Result Of Domestic Violence

There were 30 domestic violence service providers that submitted data to the Central Repository for 2009 (see Appendix I). Data from each participating agency was extracted from client intake information and submitted on the standardized Domestic Violence Service Agencies Data Collection Form (see Appendix J).

The total number of reports for each variable analyzed from service providers will vary as all questions may not be answered on each report submitted. The number of reports considered for each question analyzed is stated throughout the report as the findings on each variable are discussed.

1. Number Seeking Services

There were 15,021 new clients served during 2009, which is a 10% decrease in the number of clients served in 2008.

▶ Number of Immigrant Children Served by Agency	Table 11
▶ Total Number of Offenders Treated by Service Providers	2,478
▶ Number of Offenders Treated by Agency	Table 12

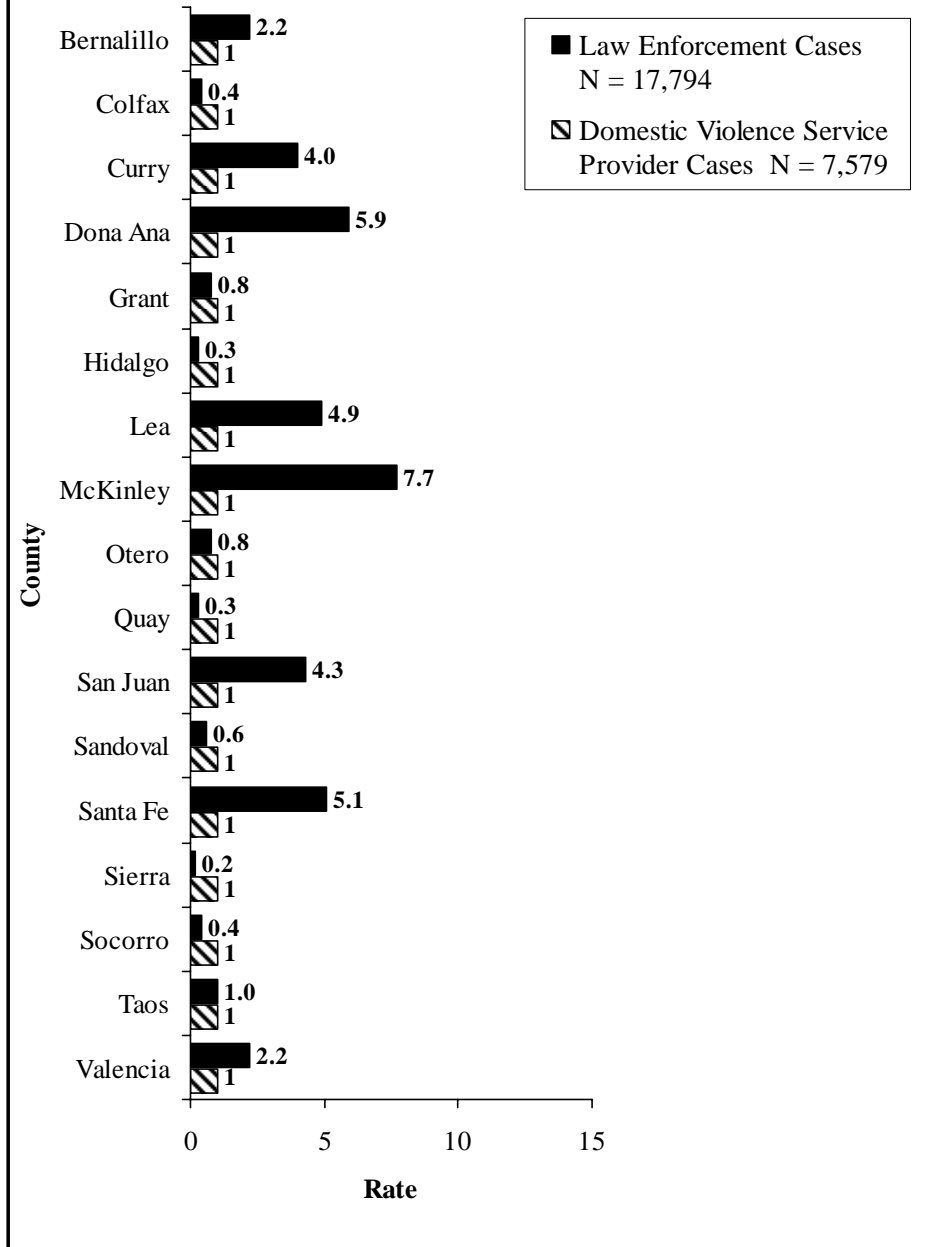

An analysis was conducted comparing the number of adult victims served to the number of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement (in counties with the law enforcement agency from the largest city reporting, and where the direct service provider reported in all four quarters of 2009). This analysis revealed that McKinley County had the fewest number of victims receiving services relative to the number of incidents reported to police (1 out of 7.7), followed by Dona Ana County (1 out of 5.9), Santa Fe County (1 out of 5.1), and Lea County (1 out of 4.9). See Figure 4.

Adult victims who went for help in 2009 (8,657) represent 43% of domestic violence cases identified by law enforcement (20,050). This is similar to the 44% of law enforcement victims represented by adult victims served in 2008.

▶ Five Year Trends in The Percent of Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Incidents Represented by The Number of Adult Victims Served for Individual Counties	Section 3C

Offenders who went for treatment (2,478) represent 12% of the domestic violence suspects identified by law enforcement. This is 3% less than were represented in 2008.

2. Gender of Those Served

Survivor gender was documented in 8,359 of 8,657 adult victims served. Ninety-four percent (7,887) of the adult victims served were female. Conversely, 81% (1,861) of the 2,306 reports that documented offender gender, reported the offender was male. Gender was documented in 3,714 of the 3,886 children victim-witnesses served. There was an equal proportion of female (1,862) and male children (1,852), 50%, respectively, who witnessed the abuse of an adult victim. See Figure 5.

3. Ages of Those Served

The age of the adult victim was documented in 8,278 provider reports. Adult victims, 61% (5,065) were predominately 22-40 years of age, 25% (2,074) were 41-59 years of age, and 11% (859) were 18-21 years of age. Victims age 60 and older comprised 3% (248) of all adult victims served. See Figure 6.

Of the 2,302 reports that documented offender age, 64% (1,468) were 22-40 years old, 22% (506) were 41-59, and 12% (279) were 18-21. Offenders age 60 and older comprised 2% (35) of all offenders served and those <18 years of age comprised <1% (9) of all offenders. Refer to Figure 6.

The age of children victim-witnesses was documented in 3,672 of the 3,886 children served. Forty-four percent (1,625) of the children victim-witnesses were between 0-5 years old, 34% (1,245) were 6-11 years old, 21% (789) were 12-17 years old, and <1% (11) were 18-21 years old. See Figure 7.

4. Race/Ethnicity of Those Served

The race/ethnicity of the adult victim was identified in 8,309 reports. Of these, 55% (4,537) were Hispanic, 30% (2,455) White (non-Hispanics), 12% (972) Native American, 2% (207) Black, 1% (100) Other, and <1% (38) Asian. For a comparison of adult victim racial/ethnic distribution to the racial/ethnic composition of New Mexico, see Figure 8.

Hispanics comprised 58% (2,078) of the 3,577 children victim-witnesses where race/ethnicity was documented, followed by 18% (635) White (non-Hispanic), 17% (624) Native Americans, 4% (137) Blacks, <1% (3) Asians, and 3% (100) Other. Refer to Figure 8.

Of the 2,284 offender reports that documented offender race/ethnicity, the racial/ethnic group with the greatest number of offenders represented were Hispanics, 51% (1,155), followed by White (non-Hispanics), 28% (630), Native Americans, 17% (390), Blacks, 4% (81), Asians, <1% (1) and Other race/ethnicity, 1% (27). L. How Many Domestic Violence Incidents Have Children Present At The Scene

- Number of Service Provider Reports That Documented Whether Children Were Present 4,935
- Number of Service Provider Domestic Violence Cases with Children Present 2,176(53%)
- Number of Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Reports Documenting Status Of Children Present 13,973
- Number of Children Present at the Scene of Domestic Violence Incidents 4,302

The ages of the children were documented in 6,328 cases. Approximately one-quarter (27%) of these children were under 6 years of age, 11% were 6-9 years of age, and 9% were age 10 - 12. Therefore, approximately half (47%) of those children who witnessed domestic violence incidents were not yet adolescents. Adolescents between the ages of 13 - 17 comprised 31% of the children at the domestic violence scenes, while young adults, 18-21, comprised 22% of those who witnessed domestic abuse. See Figure 13.

There were 16,178 law enforcement reported domestic violence incidents that documented both the number of incidents with children present and the number of children present. Of these incidents, 4,276 had children present and the total number of children present was 6,378 or 1.5 children per incident. The analysis of these incidents allow for a more accurate determination of the average number of children present when children witness family violence incidents.

M. What About Injury and Sexual Assault Among Adult Victims and Children Who Went For Help

Of 6,303 service provider reports, 2,296 (36%) adult victims reported being physically injured from the domestic assault. Similarly, there were 7,004 provider reports that identified 1,069 (15%) victims who experienced forced or coerced sexual activity from the current offender. See Figure 14.

There were 2,900 service provider reports that identified 1,091 (38%) children victim-witnesses that experienced physical abuse from the current offender of the adult victim. Similarly, there were 2,369 provider reports that identified 214 (9%) children victim-witnesses who experienced sexual abuse from the current offender of the adult victim. Refer to Figure 14.

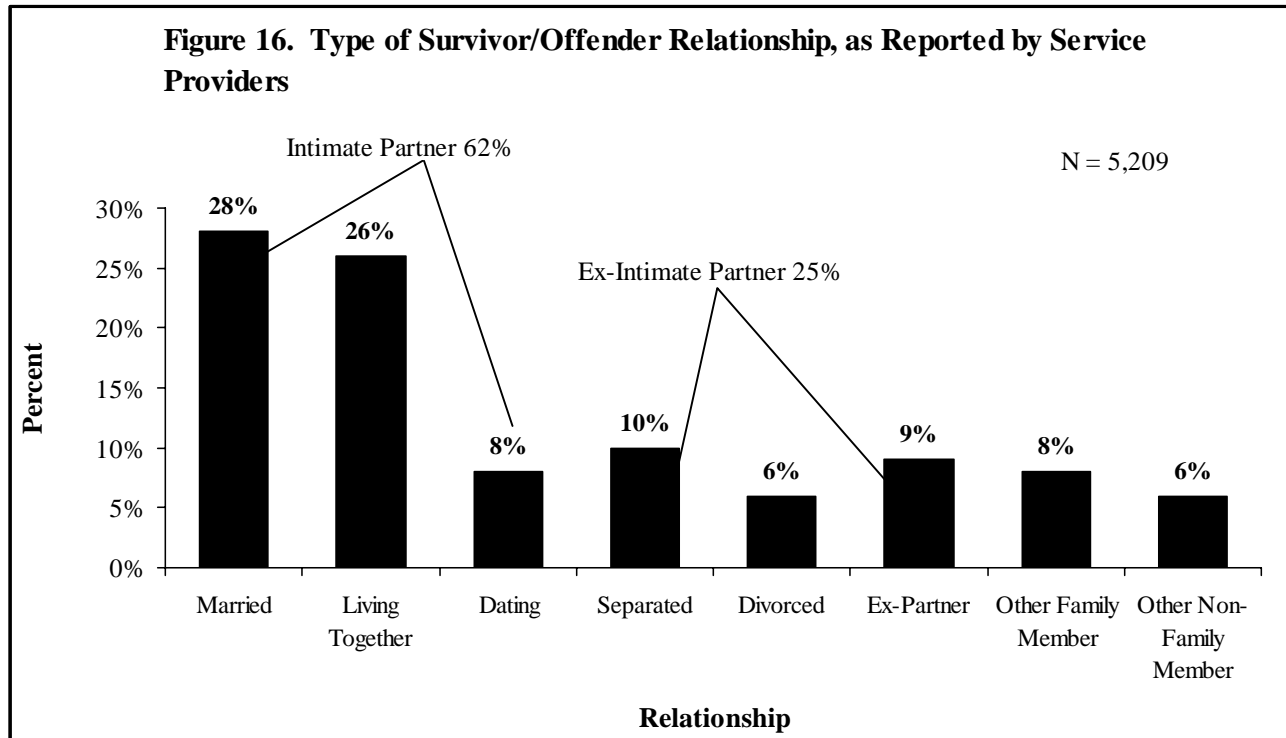

N. Who Are The People Hurting Their Partners or Family Members

Of 20,775 suspects reported by law enforcement, their relationship to the victim was documented among 12,876. Of these, a total of 40.5% were boyfriend/girlfriend (38%) and ex-boyfriend/girlfriend (2.5%). The victim/suspect relationships in 22% were spouse (19%) and ex-spouse (3%). Relatives accounted for 31% of identified victim/suspect relationships. See Figure 15.

The victim/offender relationship was documented in 5,209 service provider victim reports. Over one-quarter, 28% (1,443) of victims were married to their offender, and an additional 26% (1,373) were living together. Another 8% (407) were dating their offender and 25% were either an ex-partner (9% or 448), separated (10% or 505) or divorced (6% or 312). Therefore, 87% of those receiving direct services were the result of violence perpetrated by a former or current intimate partner. See Figure 16.

O. How Long Have Domestic Violence Victims Been In A Relationship With Their Offenders

There were 4,574 reports that documented the length of relationship between the victim and offender. The greatest number of victims 25% (1,162) reported a relationship with a duration of 3-5 years, followed by those who reported a relationship of 6-10 years 20% (921) and 1-2 years 19% (848). Sixteen percent (712) were together 11 -20 years and 8% (377) were together over 20 years. Twelve percent (554) were together less than a year. See Figure 17.

P. How Many Victims and Offenders Have Been Victims Of Abuse When They Were Children

Past victim abuse and/or the witnessing of abuse as a child was documented in 5,652 provider reports. Over half (52% or 2,945) of adult victims reported experiencing abuse as a child. See Figure 18. Additionally, 68% or 4,818 of 7,125 of adult victims reported experiencing at least one prior domestic violence incident as an adult.

In 2009, there were 1,930 offender reports that documented past abuse. Of these, 43% (822) reported experiencing abuse as a child. However, when victims were asked if their offender was abused as a child, 64% (2,312 of 3,612) reported that their offender experienced abuse as a child. Refer to Figure 18.

Q. Who Refers Adult Victims for Help and What Kind of Services Do They Receive

Most adult victim referrals to service providers were by law enforcement (31%), self-referrals (21%) and adult court (9%). Additionally, service providers throughout the state responded to 22,389 crisis/hotline calls. La Casa, Inc. (Las Cruces) responded to the most crisis calls, 33% (7,312) followed by Resources, Inc. (Albuquerque), 32% (7,092).

S. Who Refers Offenders for Help and What Kind of Services Do Offenders Receive

Of 2,276 offender referrals, most were referred for services by adult court 78% (1786). Six percent of offenders respectively, were referred by law enforcement (131), CYFD Child Protective Services (138) and were self-referred (133).

► Sources of Offender Referrals and The Number Referred from Each Table 24

X. How Many Domestic Violence Charges Were Filed in District and Magistrate Courts in 2009

In law enforcement there is an undetermined number of domestic violence cases documented and processed as other crimes, such as fire, destruction of property, vandalism, homicide, false imprisonment, car collisions, etc., that are not known to be domestic violence related, or when known, are not always entered into each law enforcement agency’s database coded as domestic-related. Therefore, the family violence nature of the crime is not captured. This same problem in capturing some domestic violence incidents is true in the courts, as well.

With aggregate data, the best approach to capture as much reliable domestic violence incidents as possible, is to establish a consistent definition of domestic violence when extracting such data from law enforcement and court information systems. To this end, domestic violence cases examined from the courts include the following law enforcement charges, all perpetrated against a household member: assault (A), aggravated assault (AA), battery (B), aggravated battery (AB), stalking (S), aggravated stalking (AS), and assault with intent to commit violent felony (AIF). Data from all 32 district courts (Appendix K) and 48 magistrate courts (Appendix L) were extracted from the statewide Administrative Office of the Courts automated system. Data from the Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court (BCMC) case management database system were not provided to the Central Repository for this report.

► Total Number of New Filings of Domestic Violence Charges in 2009	11,763

The 11,763 new domestic violence filings represent 59% of all cases reported by law enforcement for the same time period.

Y. How Many Domestic Violence Cases Were Disposed By The Courts in 2009

- ▶ Domestic Violence Cases Disposed by District Courts 3,377
- ▶ Domestic Violence Cases Disposed by Magistrate Courts 8,194 *
- ▶ Total Number of Disposed Domestic Violence Cases in 2009 11,571

*Does not include Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court which did not report to the Central Repository in 2009.

Of the 3,377 domestic violence cases disposed by the district courts in 2009, Albuquerque District Court disposed almost half, 51% (1,709), followed by the Las Cruces, 11% (367), Aztec, 5% (173), Clovis, 5% (160) and Bernalillo (118), and Santa Fe (117) with 3%, respectively.

- ▶ Number of Disposed Domestic Violence Cases for Each District Court Table 32

Z. What Types of Domestic Violence Charges Are Processed In the Courts

1. District Court

Over three-quarters (79%) of the disposed district court domestic violence cases included charges of battery (53%) or aggravated battery (26%). Aggravated assault and assault comprised 13% and 6% of domestic violence cases, respectively. Aggravated stalking comprised 2% of domestic violence cases, while stalking and assault with intent to commit violent felony comprised 1%, respectively. See Figure 23.

2. Magistrate Court

Of 8,194 disposed cases of domestic violence in magistrate courts, 80% were battery (68%) and aggravated battery (12%) charges. Assault and aggravated assault comprised 12% and 5% of cases, respectively. Stalking and aggravated stalking, comprised 1%, respectively, of domestic violence cases disposed by the magistrate courts (see Figure 24). These small proportions of domestic violence crimes with aggravating circumstances in magistrate courts are a reflection of the purview of the magistrate courts. Normally, crimes with aggravating circumstances, such as aggravated battery, aggravated stalking, aggravated assault and assault with intent to commit a violent felony are processed as felonies in the district courts.

AA. What Is the Conviction Rate of Domestic Violence Cases in the Courts

1. District Courts

- ▶ Number of District Court Disposed Domestic Violence Cases 3,377
- ▶ Number of Convictions in Disposed District Court Domestic Violence Cases 1,241 (37%)

Of all the domestic violence cases handled by the district courts, aggravated stalking had the highest percent of convictions (47%), followed by stalking and battery (39%, respectively), and aggravated assault (37%). Approximately one-third of disposed assault (35%) and aggravated battery (33%) cases obtained a conviction. Finally, 18% of assault with intent to commit violent felony obtained a conviction. See Figure 25.

II. LIMITATIONS OF THE DATA AND FUTURE DATA NEEDS

A. Law Enforcement

- Advances in technology are available and must be utilized to make it easier for law enforcement to establish a pattern of stalking from isolated incidents of crime and identify and refer victims and children for appropriate services. When stalking is identified, it must be charged accordingly with the confidence that district attorneys will seriously prosecute this crime as is warranted and victims and their children must be referred to appropriate services.

B. District Attorney's Offices

- Greater study must be focused on what the district attorney's offices need to process domestic violence cases in a timely and accurate manner, and then appropriate steps taken to address identified roadblocks. In practice, those district attorney's offices that have a specialized prosecution unit, i.e. one or more prosecutors assigned exclusively to domestic violence cases (depending on the size of the court's jurisdiction) have less cases dismissed for lack of preparation and therefore, more cases prosecuted. For this reason, all statewide district attorney's offices should be encouraged to establish a specialized prosecution unit.
- Greater advances in vertical prosecution which prosecute crimes based on evidence and do not require the victim to press charges or testify, would greatly reduce the high number of dismissals for this reason. Requiring victims who fear retribution from the offender or economic ruin for themselves and their children to testify as a requirement of prosecution, merely encourages the cycle of abuse. In the end, only 23% of disposed magistrate court cases of domestic violence ended with an offender conviction. Furthermore, the percent of cases that did not make it to disposition is not exactly clear from currently provided data. This is not encouraging news for victims whose purpose for involving the court is to obtain protection from the offender. Indeed, it is the frequency of such experiences which discourages survivors from reporting subsequent assaults perpetrated on themselves and their children.

- Data needs from the Administrative Office of the District Attorney's (AODA) include case disposition information such as the number of convictions at trial, the number of pled cases and pled to lesser charges, the number of trial acquittals, and sentencing information on both misdemeanor and felony domestic violence charges. Currently, no reliable data from the AODA has been made available to the Central Repository.
- The New Mexico Sentencing Commission study proposed the “Next Step” in obtaining sentencing information from district attorney’s offices:

“During the pilot project we learned there is not a single data source that maintains all the information needed to study sentencing in domestic violence cases. The District Attorneys have the majority of the information needed; but unfortunately it is not available in an electronic format. It is not feasible to travel to District Attorneys’ offices to collect the incident characteristics, prior criminal history, and sentencing considerations for all cases statewide. However, it is important to collect this information on a larger sample of cases to see if a sentencing model can be developed based on incident characteristics and other variables. In December 2007, the project advisory group endorsed a prospective approach to collecting this information statewide. The approach involves asking District Attorneys’ offices to fill out a data collection form provided by NMSC at the time of sentencing for every case that has a HHM (household member) crime.”

Since District Attorneys’ offices have been trained on how to complete the sentencing form, it is recommended that more District Attorneys’ offices comply with the NMSC by completing and submitting the forms. This is necessary to allow NMSC to establish a comprehensive database that maintains all the information needed to critically study sentencing in domestic violence cases.

C. The Courts

- While the Administrative Office of the Courts provides domestic violence information to the Central Repository for all district and magistrate courts throughout the state, the Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court (BCMC) does not participate. This is quite disturbing, since it is the largest jurisdiction in the state and handles the most misdemeanor cases. A better effort should be made on the part of BCMC to address whatever obstacles exist that prevent them from reporting on their court’s activity regarding domestic violence crimes in Bernalillo County. It is hoped that the AOC Violence Against Women Point of Contact Attorney will establish the necessary communication to begin to access this information.
- In the last six years, law enforcement officers have been trained in the investigation of domestic violence cases to promote prosecution based on case evidence versus victim testimony, as is done in homicide, suicide and other crimes. However, many magistrate judges throughout the state still dismiss evidence-based prosecution cases if the victim does not appear, as well. The recommendation is for all magistrate judges to be trained on the merits of evidence-based prosecution so that cases without victim testimony will still be accepted for prosecution. Again, there is great expectation for the AOC Violence Against Women Point of Contact Attorney to advance efforts regarding judicial training on domestic violence issues.

D. Domestic Violence Service Providers

- Presently, the New Mexico Coalition Against Domestic Violence is working with the Central Repository to establish a system that allows for the collection of individual records from membership programs. This data will dramatically expand the variables to be collected and allow for more meaningful analysis, the findings from which will provide guidance to prevention, treatment, investigation and prosecution efforts.

E. Medical Facilities

- The process for collecting standardized domestic violence data from statewide medical facilities is not yet completed. Since many times the first, and perhaps only contact a victim may have with the "helping system" is through a hospital emergency department or physicians' office, this creates a significant void in the Central Repository data and represents a major obstacle in accurately defining the scope and nature of domestic violence in our state. Moreover, until better protocols are established for identifying patient visits associated with interpersonal violence, a significant portion of the total cost of interpersonal violence to individuals, their communities and the state cannot be estimated.

F. Closing Comments

The aforementioned improvements in data collection will ultimately be required to answer the type of domestic violence questions that are most critical in guiding public policy decisions, program development and the most effective allocation of resources. To this end, the Central Repository Director will continue to pursue collaborations with statewide agencies (both current participants and non-participants) and the State Department of Health and the Department of Public Safety to develop a process for enhancing our present data collection system.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE TRENDS IN NEW MEXICO, 2005-2009:
An Analysis of Data from
The New Mexico Interpersonal Violence Data Central Repository

APPENDICES

Appendix A. Survey of Violence Victimization Summary

I. INTRODUCTION

Nationally, victimization surveys such as the National Crime Victims Survey and the National Violence Against Women Survey capture more comprehensive estimates of crimes, and in particular, interpersonal violence crimes than that which is captured by law enforcement. While New Mexico law enforcement agencies have reported their incidents of domestic violence, intimate partner violence, stalking and sexual assault to the Central Repository, determining the rates of these crimes that were never reported to law enforcement was not possible. The long term goal to rectify this problem and make possible more accurate estimates on the prevalence and incidence of interpersonal violence in New Mexico was to conduct our own statewide victimization survey. To this end, in 2005 the Statewide Survey of Victimization in New Mexico (SSV) was conducted, asking 2000 adult men and 2000 adult women about their experiences of violence. While all data captured from this survey will be analyzed over the course of time, several discouraging realities are clear from the preliminary findings of this survey:

1. The rates of domestic violence, intimate partner violence and stalking in New Mexico are staggering; and higher than national comparable rates found in the National Violence Against Women Survey (NVAWS), the most comprehensive victimization survey to date;
2. These interpersonal violence crimes are significantly under-reported to law enforcement;
3. There are significantly more victims of interpersonal violence than ever identified by law enforcement or service providers statewide, especially in the case of stalking;
4. There are significant co-morbidity and healthcare utilization associated with interpersonal violence; and
5. There are significant differences between males and females in the experience and adjudication of interpersonal violence crimes.

II. FINDINGS

A. Prevalence and Incidence of Interpersonal Violence

Fifteen percent or 1 in 7 adult males in New Mexico has been the victim of domestic violence in his lifetime, and 32% or 1 in 3 adult females. Unfortunately, there is no comparable national rate available, as only physical assault in general, is captured.

Ten percent or 1 in 10 adult males has been the victim of intimate partner violence in his lifetime compared to 7% nationally (NVAWS). One-quarter (25%) or 1 in 4 adult females has been the victim of intimate partner violence in her lifetime compared to 22% nationally (NVAWS).

Seven percent or 1 in 14 adult males has been the victim of stalking in his lifetime compared to 4% nationally (NVAWS). One-quarter (25%) or 1 in 4 females has been the victim of stalking in her lifetime compared to 12% nationally (NVAWS).

In 2005 in New Mexico, 28,256 cases of domestic violence were reported to law enforcement, and 18,778 victims identified, which is half (51%) of the victims identified (36,594) in the SSV in the same time period. Domestic violence victims reported an average of 5.5 victimizations each by their offender in the last year, resulting in an estimated 201,267 incidents of domestic violence in New Mexico in 2005.

In 2005, law enforcement identified 206 stalking victims. The SSV identified 17,177 stalking victims in the same time period (83 times as many). Stalking victims reported experiencing an average of 14.3 stalking incidents each in the last year, resulting in an estimated 245,631 incidents of stalking in New Mexico in 2005.

B. Interpersonal Violence and Injury

Each year, law enforcement and service providers report the number of domestic violence victims that are injured as a result of their assault. In 2005, over one-quarter (28%) of law enforcement reported domestic violence incidents resulted in victim injury; and service providers reported that one-third (34%) of the adult victims they served were injured. Findings from the SSV reported that a significant proportion of those who were ever victims of domestic violence (44%), intimate partner violence (47%) and stalking (44%) were injured in their assaults. However, until now, we have never known how many victims of interpersonal violence sought medical care as a result of their injuries. In New Mexico, no standardized or centralized reporting process exists for capturing information on how many victims of interpersonal violence seek medical care.

C. Interpersonal Violence and Healthcare Utilization

Findings from the SSV reveal that slightly over one-third of those in New Mexico who were ever victims of domestic violence (35%), intimate partner violence (37%) and stalking (38%) went for medical treatment as a result of their injuries.

What we do not know, is how much healthcare utilization occurs as a result of co-morbidity among interpersonal violence victims. For instance, the SSV revealed that adults who were ever victims of domestic violence (16.5%), intimate partner violence (17%) and stalking (16%), experienced serious, disabling injury at twice the rate of the non-victimized population (8%). Additionally, adults who were ever victims of domestic violence (12%), intimate partner violence (11%) and stalking (12%) were nearly four times more likely to suffer from one or more chronic mental health conditions than non-violence victims (3%).

D. Men as Victims and Offenders in Interpersonal Violence

It is widely reported nationally and locally that most victims of interpersonal violence are females and most offenders are males. What was not known, and is most interesting, is that most male victims of interpersonal violence are victimized by a male, as well. A significant proportion of males who were ever victims of stalking (51%), domestic violence (62%) and intimate partner violence (49%) were victimized by a male.

E. Relationship Between Victims and Offenders of Interpersonal Violence

Two-thirds (66%) of victims of intimate partner violence were assaulted by an ex-romantic partner. Most (33%) stalking victims were stalked by someone they knew but not a relative or ever a romantic interest. Stalking victims were equally likely to be stalked by a stranger (28%) as an ex-romantic partner (27.5%).

F. Interpersonal Violence Involving Sexual Assault

The proportion of New Mexico adults who were ever stalked and also sexually assaulted in their lifetimes (48%) was greater than those who were ever domestic violence victims and sexually assaulted (45%) and intimate partner violence victims and sexually assaulted (44%). However, in the course of one's lifetime, one could be stalked by one person and sexually assaulted by another. A better measure of the rate of sexual assault by the same individual who commits physical assault is obtained by examining intimate partner violence in the last 12 months. Among intimate partner violence victims last year, 11.5% reported being sexually assaulted by their intimate partner. More female intimate partner violence victims were sexually assaulted (13%) than male intimate partner violence victims (9%).

G. Gender Differences in Interpersonal Violence

1. Interpersonal Violence and Weapons

In 2005, over one-third (38%) of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement involved a weapon. However, with aggregate reporting instead of individual records, it was not possible to determine if there was a difference in the rate of weapon use among the interpersonal violence crimes or if there was a difference in weapon use based on the gender of the victim. The SSV revealed that 32% of domestic violence, 33% intimate partner violence and 31% stalking incidents involved a weapon; and each of these crimes was significantly more likely to involve a weapon if the victim was male, than female: domestic violence (36% males, 30% female); intimate partner violence (41% male, 30% female); and stalking (39% male, 29% female).

2. Interpersonal Violence and Restraining Orders

Over the last four years, the Central Repository has reported that the average number of protection or restraining orders issued by the District Courts was equal to roughly one-quarter (26%) of the number of domestic violence incidents reported to law enforcement. The SSV revealed similar results, as roughly one-quarter of domestic violence (21%), intimate partner violence (23%) and stalking (26%) victims obtained a restraining order. However, results from the SSV showed that female domestic violence and intimate partner violence victims were 2.5 times more likely to obtain a restraining order than their male counterparts. Similarly, female stalking victims were almost two times more likely than males to obtain a restraining order.

As a result of the SSV, we have our first measure of how many restraining orders are violated by the offender. Over half of all restraining orders in interpersonal violence crimes were violated: domestic violence (53.5%); intimate partner violence (56%); and stalking (51%); and restraining orders obtained by male intimate partner violence victims had the highest rate of violation (58%).

3. Interpersonal Violence Reported to Law Enforcement and Rate of Arrests

Over the last three years, the Central Repository reported that an average of 54% of domestic violence victims who went for help reported their victimization incident to law enforcement. The SSV revealed significant differences in the rate of reporting to law enforcement by the victims of the three types of interpersonal violence crimes: domestic violence (38%), intimate partner violence (41%), and stalking (34%). While one-third of stalking victims reported their victimization to law enforcement, there were fewer arrests for stalking (5.5%), than for domestic violence and intimate partner violence (17%, respectively). Moreover, in cases of domestic violence and intimate partner violence, more offender arrests were made when there was a female victim. With stalking crimes, the arrest rate was almost equal for crimes perpetrated against female (6%) and male victims (5%).

4. Interpersonal Violence and Criminal Charges

Domestic violence and intimate partner violence victims were more likely to file criminal charges (1 in 7, respectively) than stalking victims (1 in 17). Again, domestic violence and intimate partner violence female victims were two times more likely to file charges than male victims. Conversely, female and male victims of stalking were equally likely to file criminal charges.

H. Dispositions in Interpersonal Violence Crimes

Stalking offenders had the fewest outcomes with charges dropped (13%) compared to offenders of domestic violence (25%) and intimate partner violence (28%) offenders. Additionally, stalking offenders had the highest rate of guilty pleas or convictions (51%) over domestic violence offenders (38%) and intimate partner violence offenders (39%). Offenders of each interpersonal violence crime involving a female victim were significantly more likely to plead guilty than offenders of each with a male victim. The rate of acquittals for offenders of male domestic violence and intimate partner violence were 4 and 5 times, respectively, the rate of offender acquittals for these crimes with a female victim. Conversely, offenders of stalking with a male victim were much less likely to obtain an acquittal (<1%) than stalking offenders with a female victim (5%).

Roughly two-thirds of all those sentenced for interpersonal violence crimes were sentenced to jail or prison. The average sentence length for convicted domestic violence offenders (3.04 years) was longer than that of intimate partner violence offenders (2.7 years) and stalking offenders (1.97 years). Domestic violence and intimate partner violence offenders received a longer average sentence when the victim was a female, while stalking offenders received a slightly longer average sentence when the victim was a male. Offenders sentenced for stalking a male victim actually served a longer average sentence (2.0 years) than offenders sentenced for intimate partner violence with a male victim (1.5 years).

APPENDIX B. RESPONDENT BELIEFS ABOUT PERSONAL SAFETY FOR WOMEN TODAY, THEIR OWN PERSONAL SAFETY AND ACCOMMODATING BEHAVIOR

- The SVV data was examined to assess respondents' beliefs about personal safety for women today, beliefs about their own personal safety, and accommodating behavior, specifically whether or not they carry something with them to defend themselves or alert other people. These variables were examined by the respondents' education level, race/ethnicity and whether or not they have been a victim of interpersonal violence (victims/non-victims).

1. Education Level

- Overall, the higher the education level, the more likely respondents are to believe that personal safety for women today has gotten worse. While this is true for males and females, the average proportion of females of every education level (51%) is significantly more than their male counterparts (38%) that believe that it has gotten worse. In fact, more high school males actually believe that personal safety for women has improved (36%), than believe it has gotten worse (30%).
- For females, the higher the education level, the more likely they are to be somewhat or very concerned about their own personal safety. Over half (54%) of female respondents with a college/post-college degree report being somewhat or very concerned about their own personal safety compared to 42% of those with some high school or less.
- Male respondents by education level, report the inverse of females with regard to beliefs about their own personal safety. More males with some high school or less (42%) are concerned about their own personal safety, compared to 26% of males with a college/post-college degree.
- The higher the education level for females, the more likely they are to carry something with them to defend themselves. Almost one-third (31%) of college/post-college women report they carry something compared to 11% of women with some high school or less.
- For males, more high school graduates and those with some college education (26%, respectively) carry something to defend themselves, than males from any other education level.

2. Race/Ethnicity

- Over half of White (non-Hispanics) (53%) and Blacks (56%) believe that personal safety for women today has gotten worse since they were a child, while slightly over one-third (38%, respectively) of Hispanics and American Indians believe this to be the case.
- There is a dramatic disconnect between Hispanic males and females with regard to beliefs about personal safety for women today. The greatest proportion of females (44%) report that personal safety for women today has gotten worse, while the greatest proportion of males (40%) report that it has improved.
- More American Indians (53%) report being somewhat or very concerned about their own personal safety than respondents from all other racial/ethnic groups. An equal proportion of Blacks (50%, respectively) are somewhat or very concerned as were not really or just a little concerned.

- For males, more American Indians (58%) and Blacks (55%) are somewhat or very concerned about their own personal safety than males from other racial/ethnic groups where more reported being not really or just a little concerned. Slightly over one-quarter of Hispanic males and females, and one-third respectively of White (non-Hispanic) females and American Indian males carry something with them to defend themselves.

3. Victim/non-Victim Status

- While more victims (48%) than non-victims (41%) in New Mexico believe that personal safety for women has gotten worse, more respondents in both groups believe it has improved or stayed about the same. Ironically, however, twice as many female non-victims believe that personal safety for women today has gotten worse (46%) than believe it has improved (23%).
- More females whether they have ever been a victim or not, are somewhat or very concerned about their own personal safety than their male counterparts; and significantly more female victims are somewhat or very concerned (55%), than female non-victims (41%).
- Slightly over one-third of male and female victims carry something with them to defend themselves compared to less than one-quarter of non-victims that carry something to defend themselves.
