

American Indian Health Services

Volume II, November 1, 2008

Access is the doorway to improved health. By offering culturally appropriate care and information when it's needed, where it's needed, we can help all New Mexicans to achieve the good health they deserve.

The Department of Health has compiled this list of services that specifically addresses American Indian health. We are committed to working together to speak with one voice, to improve access to our services and information, to prevent disease, promote health, and reduce health disparities.
